Two New Executive Council Members

ROBERT SADER

Prof. Robert Sader graduated in 1987

in Medicine and 1991 in Dentistry. Afterwards, he completed his training in Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery in Munich until 1995, specialisation in facial plastic and reconstructive surgery followed in 1998. In 1999 he achieved the state doctorate and lecture qualification. 2002 he moved to Basel/Switzerland as deputy head of the University department. Since December 2004 he was appointed professor, director and chair of Oral, Cranio-Maxillofacial and Facial Plastic Surgery at the Johann Wolfgang Goethe-University in Frankfurt.

The personal clinical focus of Prof. Sader is based on interdisciplinary treatment strategies, especially for skeletal malformations, and use of modern surgical technologies. His department offers the whole field of OMFS surgery containing from implantology, trauma and tumour care to craniofacial surgery, and he presides over one of the largest cleft centres in Europe. Correspondingly his main research topics are development and use of innovative technologies ranging from 3D-simulation, material sciences to molecular medicine. The outcome of more than 300 scientific publications proves the high standard of the research projects. He is member of numerous national and international associations and has won several outstanding scientific awards. Membership of several scientific boards of associations, foundations and journals shows also a sound standing political work. Since 2005, Prof. Sader is also deputy head of the new founded High-tech-Research Center – Center for Transdisciplinary Research in Cranio-Maxillofacial Surgery in Basel/Switzerland. Here, in a close interdisciplinary cooperation between mathematics, physicists, biologist, engineers, medicines and many other disciplines innovative technologies for next generation surgery are developed. In 2009, Prof. Sader was elected President of the “German Academy of Aesthetic Dentistry” and of the “Frankfurt Society of Dentistry from 1863”. Since 2010 he is dean responsible for clinical student education of the Medical Faculty of the Goethe University Frankfurt.
